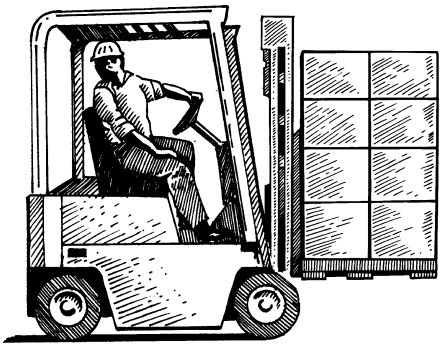
Forklift Operator Training

(4-Hour Training)



This four-hour training course meets OSHA's formal training requirements per 1910.178. Operators will receive training on a variety of topics, including: pre-start inspections; operating limitations; differences between trucks; steering and maneuvering; and vehicle capacity. Other workplace-related topics covered are: operating surfaces; narrow aisles; pedestrian traffic; hazardous locations; and ramps.

Each participant who successfully passes the post-test will receive a certificate of completion and wallet card, indicating that they have met the formal training requirements to operate a powered industrial truck.

Forklift - "Train-the-Trainer"

We all know how difficult it can be to meet OSHA's training standards. Let us help simplify the process by training your instructors for you. We'll not only provide them with the knowledge to effectively teach forklift safety, but we'll also provide them with the skills necessary to effectively communicate these requirements to your employees. Topics include: pre-start safety inspections; design considerations; picking up the load; moving the truck; and setting down the load.

Your trainers will gain the tools necessary to meet the formal training requirements, the practical training requirements, and the evaluations. Forms and checklists are provided to properly document your in-house training.
